students arriving in March. Additional German language courses are offered during the semester.

Orientation

Orientation takes place before the start of the semester and offers an introduction to formalities of studying and living in Siegen, and a broad range of cultural events. Students get helpful information on how to organize their stay at the university, in Siegen and in Germany in general.

Insurance

Valid health insurance coverage is mandatory for enrolment.

Health Care for EU and UK Students

EU students need a European International Health Insurance Card (EHIC). EHIC gives European students access to medically necessary, statutory health insurance during temporary stays in any of the 27 European countries as well as in Iceland, Lichtenstein, Norway and Switzerland. You can find further information on the EU website. Please note that EHIC may not cover all medical costs. Therefore, students should contact their current health care provider for further information well in advance.

The Global Health Insurance Card (GHIC) allows UK citizens to get statutory health care in Europe for reduced costs or sometimes for free. You will find further information on the UK Government website. Please note that EHIC may not cover all medical costs. Therefore, students should contact their current health care provider for further information well in advance.

Health Care for Non-EU Students

We strongly advice non-EU students to arrange a German statutory health insurance coverage for the duration of their studies in Siegen. There are several options and ISA offers assistance in the process.
As the German statutory health insurance coverage usually begins no earlier than the first day of the semester (winter semester: October 1, summer semester: April 1), an additional travel/international health insurance coverage should be arranged for the period between the date of arrival and the first day of the semester!

Additional Liability, Household and Accident Insurance

Furthermore, we strongly recommend students to have a civil liability, household as well as an accident insurance during their stay here in Germany.

Academic documents

Before the mobility, students are required to prepare a Learning Agreement to document their planned studies in Siegen and credit transfer at home. The Learning Agreement must be signed by the student as well as contact person at the home university and the University of Siegen. After their mobility, a Transcript of Records will be issued.
